express news offers us a deeper understanding of the inner lives of animals and teaches us how we can more effectively communicate with them made real by his own remarkable experiences with a wide array of creatures great and small in talking to animals journalist jon katz who left his manhattan life behind two decades ago for life on a farm where he is surrounded by dogs cats sheep horses cows goats and chickens marshals his experience to offer us a deeper insight into animals and the tools needed for effectively communicating with them devoting each chapter to a specific animal from his life katz tells funny and illuminating stories about his profound experiences with them showing us how healthy engagement with animals falls into five key areas food movement visualization language and instincts along the way we meet simon the donkey who arrives at katz s farm near death and now serves as his tai chi partner we meet red the dog who started out antisocial and untrained and is now a therapy dog working with veterans from iraq and afghanistan and we meet winston the dignified and brave rooster who was injured defending his hens from a hawk and who has better interpersonal skills than most humans thoughtful and intelligent lively and powerful this book will completely change the way you think about and interact with animals katz s honest straightforward and sometimes searing prose will speak to those who love animals and might well convert some who do not booklist this book explores the intricate relationships between film spectators and animal bodies through the lens of gesture it offers a unique approach to understanding how the relations between human and nonhuman animals are not only depicted but also enacted by the medium of film by examining gesture as an aesthetic and a medial device the book presents a novel perspective on the potential of films to reveal the intimate cognitive affective ties between animal life the moving image and spectatorship history of animals by aristotle translated by darcy wentworth thompson book i 1 of the parts of animals some are simple to wit all such as divide into parts uniform with themselves as flesh into flesh others are composite such as divide into parts not uniform with themselves as for instance the hand does not divide into hands nor the face into faces and of such as these some are called not parts merely but limbs or members such are those parts that while entire in themselves have within themselves other diverse parts as for instance the head foot hand the arm as a whole the chest for these are all in themselves entire parts and there are other diverse parts belonging to them all those parts that do not subdivide into parts uniform with themselves are composed of parts that do so subdivide for instance hand is composed of flesh sinews and bones of animals some resemble one another in all their parts while others have parts wherein they differ sometimes the parts are identical in form or species as for instance one man s nose or eye resembles another man s nose or eye flesh flesh and bone bone and in like manner with a horse and with all other animals which we reckon to be of one and the same species for as the whole is to the whole so each to each are the parts severally in other cases the parts are identical save only for a difference in the way of excess or defect as is the case in such animals as are of one and the same genus by genus i mean for instance bird or fish for each of these is subject to difference in respect of its genus and there are many species of fishes and of birds this catechism is divided into three parts the first part treats of faith the second of morals the third of the means of grace in the first part our lord appears in his character of teacher in the second in his character of king and in the third in his character of high priest and since this catechism proposes as its primary object to answer the question for what purpose are we here upon earth thereby emphasizing and giving prominence to man's high calling and destiny it is especially suited to the present day when the pursuit of material interests self indulgence and pleasure engrosses the attention of so many this catechism is in fact nothing more nor less than an abstract of our lord's teaching and may be called a guide book for the christian on the road to heaven preface
