This book takes readers on a journey into the experiences, struggles and triumphs of early career researchers in the humanities in the spirit of guiding emerging scholars and researchers in higher education. The edited volume highlights lived experiences of researchers and ways to navigate the struggles and values of research in the humanities featuring 20 unique essays by emergent scholars who weave their personal lives into their research passions. This book offers a window into the experience of researchers in both professional and personal developments. The chapters are accompanied by letters of encouragement and advice from senior researchers who reflect on the role that research has played in their lives. Each chapter further engages with the literature relevant to the topic, firmly grounding the work in the academic field. The book also includes a section on how to use the book, providing prompts for discussion and reflection that encourage self-guided exploration and collaborative reading, providing inspiration and deep insight. This book is a unique resource for postgraduate students, advanced degree and early career researchers as well as their supervisors in the humanities and beyond.

This important new book critically examines the complex policy and practice issues surrounding child protection, including the impact of theoretical orientations, contemporary debates, policy initiatives and research findings, and maintains an emphasis on the ethics and values underpinning child welfare interventions. The book introduces policies that are central to understanding the position and needs of children and young people and how policy and practice have been influenced by developments including the children's rights agenda. It also explores the most significant issues in child welfare, these include the experience of maltreatment by children, the systems of child protection to safeguard them, the methods and challenges of risk assessment and the wide range of policy and therapeutic interventions to respond to children's needs. The book also examines family support to promote children's wellbeing before considering provision for children and young people who are looked after in out of home care. There is also a final section that focuses on best practice in communicating and working with children and young people, drawing on participatory, rights-oriented and resilience-based approaches and supporting foster and adoptive carers and biological parents.

contributing in a substantive and clear manner to a growing international conversation about the present function and future directions for child welfare in contemporary societies this textbook will be of interest to undergraduate and postgraduate social work students and those from allied disciplines and professionals who are engaged in child welfare services
