in works of western literature ranging from homer's odyssey to albee's who's afraid of virginia woolf the giving and taking of hospitality is sometimes pleasurable but more often perilous heffernan traces this leitmotiv through the history of our greatest writings including christ's last supper macbeth's murder of his royal guest and camus's short story on french colonialism in arab algeria by means of such examples and many more this book considers what literary hosts hostesses and guests do to as well as for each other in doing so it shows how often treachery rends the fabric of trust that hospitality weaves from ancient greece through the present day women writers have confronted the male urge to make war by imagining communities in which intuitive bonding among individuals questions and replaces masculinist values of aggression and competition women's vision in western literature traces the gender gap in literature from 600 b c to the present day through an examination of seven extraordinary women writers from sappho to christa wolf combining close readings with a comprehensive overview of the careers of these women porter shows how the threat the experience and the aftermath of war incites them to imagine tolerant empathic communities this careful consideration of these seven great writers brings to light an underappreciated aspect of western women's writing starting with sappho porter illustrates this ancient poet's ability to rewrite the homeric war rhetoric to reflect a non possessive love experience marie de france arranges traditional animal fables to imply an open ended situation ethics according to the author and madame de stael in a europe torn by napoleonic conquests advocates cross cultural unions among countries in the works of mary shelley we see the warnings of the dangers of vainglorious soulless technology and virginia woolf depicts intuitive bonding beyond gender stereotypes amid the ruins of war and crumbling empire he shows how marguerite yourcenar dreams of a new era of world peace after hitler s defeat and how christa wolf tries to cope with her country s nazi past even as she reaffirms european identity threatened by annihilations in nuclear conflict world literature is an increasingly influential subject in literary studies which has led to the re framing of contemporary ideas of national literatures language and translation world literature a reader brings together thirty essential readings which display the theoretical foundations of the subject as well as showing its conceptual development over a two hundred year period the book features an illuminating introduction to the subject with suggested reading paths to help readers navigate through the materials texts exploring key themes such as globalization cosmopolitanism post trans nationalism and translation and nationalism writings by major figures including j w goethe karl marx friedrich engels longxi zhao david damrosch gayatri chakravorty spivak pascale casanova and milan kundera the early explorations of the meaning of weltliteratur are introduced while twenty first century interpretations by leading scholars today show the latest critical developments in the field the editors offer readers the ideal introduction to the theories and debates surrounding the impact of this crucial area on the modern literary landscape the western american landscape has always had great significance in american thinking requiring an unlikely union between frontier mythology and the reality of a fragile western environment additionally it has borne the burden of being a gendered space seen by some as the traditional virgin land of the explorers and pioneers subject to masculine desires and by others as a masculine space in which the feminine is neither desired nor appreciated both wallace stegner and cormac mccarthy focus on this landscape and environment its spiritual narrative symbolic imaginative and ideological force is central to their work in this study mcgilchrist shows how their various treatments of these issues relate to the social climates pre and post vietnam era in which they were written and how despite historical discontinuities both stegner and mccarthy reveal a similar unease about the effects of the myth of the frontier on american thought and life the gendering of the landscape is revealed as indicative of the attempts to deny the failure of the myth and to force the often numinous western landscape into parameters which will never contain it stegner's pre vietnam sensibility allows the natural world to emerge tentatively triumphant from the ruins of frontier mythology whereas mccarthy's conclusions suggest a darker future for the west in particular and america in general however mcgilchrist suggests that the conclusion of mccarthy's border trilogy upon which her arguments regarding mccarthy are largely based offers a gleam of hope in its final conclusion of acceptance of the feminine this book examines the chinese fictions xiaoshuo published between 1898 and 1927 three pivotal decades during which china underwent significant social changes it applies narratology and sociology of the novel methods to analyze both the texts themselves and the social cultural factors that triggered the transformation of the narrative mode in chinese fiction based on empirical data the author argues that this transformation was not only inspired by translated western fiction but was also the result of a creative transformation in tradition chinese literature memoirs of diasporic iranian american authors are a unique and culturally powerful way in which iran its politics and people are understood in the usa and the rest of the world this book offers an analysis of the processes of production promotion and reception of the representations of post revolutionary iran the book provides new perspectives on some of the most famous examples of the genre such as betty mahmoody's not without my daughter azar nafisi's reading lolita in tehran a memoir in books and fatemeh keshavarz's jasmine and stars reading more than lolita in tehran hossein nazari places these texts in their social historical and political contexts tracing their origins within the trope of the american captivity narrative teasing out and critiquing neo orientalist tendencies within and finally focusing on modes of discursive resistance to neo orientalist narratives the book analyzes the structural means by which stereotypes about islam and women in the islamic republic in these narratives are privileged by news media and the creative industries while also charting a growing number of counterhegemonic memoirs which challenge these narratives by representing more nuanced accounts
